THE ATTITUDE OF AN ARTIST, THE APTITUDE OF A LEADER

Seeing solutions where you had previously only seen problems and discovering opportunities where you thought none existed. Richard Hight connects with audiences through his original keynote performances which are the ideal opener or closer for your next event or conference. Audiences proclaim that he provides the "WOW" factor groups want and the substance meeting planners value. He is passionate about delivering a customized, entertaining experience that meets objectives and exceeds expectations.

Thinking like an artist requires redesigning leadership and opening the mind to re-imagine the possibilities. Richard will inspire individuals to achieve fulfillment in their personal and professional lives and challenge leading organizations to implement creativity and innovation to accomplish their goals and attain their vision. These remarkable keynotes share insights about how to push great ideas forward and will compel the audience to find the courage to consider all they do a work of art.

Picture This! blends vibrant colors on a large canvas to create an image that illustrates the core values or theme of your event. It is all choreographed to selected music and happens in just minutes. The art performance is followed by a high content - at times humorous - keynote that will leave your audience standing in amazement!

Imagine That!

Explore the Creative Side of Problem Solving Using An Artist's Perspective

"Richard skillfully stretches people's perceptions to see new possibilities and experience how their own imagination works."

Successful people take advantage of emerging opportunities; successful people also seek better solutions for their ongoing challenges. In both cases, creativity is the crucial ingredient. Creativity requires a broader and more imaginative way of thinking, but it's open to all and it can help anyone, whether they're a student, a businessperson, or anything in between. And creativity isn't just for fancy projects—it's for everyday life!

Whether your audience needs motivation, inspiration, ideas, or solutions, Imagine That! will put the power right back in their hands. There is an artist in each and every one of them that will make them better at what they do, if only they have the will to imagine.

"WONDERFUL! THANKS TO RICHARD FOR TAILORING TO OUR NEEDS."

-Steven McCullar, University of Alabama

The Masterpiece In You

Discovering, Developing and Delivering Your Talents

Self-discovery is a journey, and each of us is always on a path of becoming. But sometimes that journey can seem dull and dreary, especially if you don't know where you're going and you can't remember where you're coming from.

Richard invites the audience closer and tells his own warm, humorous version of the story of self-discovery. His life is testament to the guiding power of gifts and talents, and his presentation combines visual art, music, and the spoken word to show the audience the need to look within for light. For every part of us left to chance, there is another left to choice—and every choice, like another brushstroke, is another step in making The Masterpiece in You.

"RICHARD YOU REALLY WOWED THE CROWD, AND ME! YOU PROVED JUST THE TICKET TO THE HOLD THE ATTENTION OF OUR AUDIENCE MEMBERS. WE WERE DELIGHTED"

- Chuck Mai, AAA

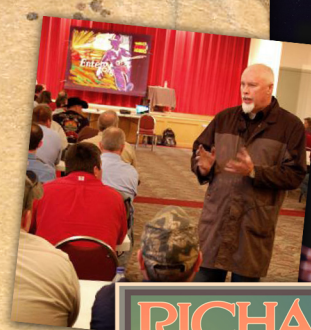

Applied Imagination

Leading From An Artist's Perspective

Everyone has an idea, but not everyone makes their idea come to life. Following through and bringing an idea to fruition is the hardest part—and it's what separates the leaders from the rest of the pack. The source of ideas, we call Imagination; the drive to make them real, we call Applied Imagination.

This keynote shares the teachings of leaders and peak performers who applied themselves, who stuck to their idea and used it to make a difference in the world. As much as Applied Imagination is a parable of persistence, it is also a lesson in thinking outside of the box, changing the game, and choosing to lead. Your idea is waiting... apply today!

One of North America's most sought-after & top rated Keynote Speakers.

Richard Hight is an international speaker and artist whose work is housed in over fifty museums and universities around the country. He discovered his love of drawing while struggling with dyslexia in school, and has been producing art and engaging audiences ever since.

In his presentations, Richard focuses on helping audiences to re-imagine the possibilities in store for them and to engage their passions and natural talents. His presentations focus on the power of creativity and all of its applications, be they the arts, business, or everyday problems.

His programs combine the spoken word with compelling music and a live, visual demonstration where he creates (in full scale and color) an original piece of art, reflecting both the audience and the major themes of your event. His presentations appeal to all demographics, and he can skillfully adapt his programs to suit your needs.

His visual style, depth of understanding, and ability to engage audiences are unparalleled; he brings the "Wow Factor" in full force to every one of his engagements. Through his words and demonstration, he shows audiences that their lives are works of art unto themselves, and therefore set apart in brilliance.

Richard has been named a Certified Speaking Professional (CSP) by the National Speakers' Association, and has appeared numerous times on CBS, NBC, ABC, and FOX networks to discuss his work and perform demonstrations. Richard has also launched numerous international tours and shared his work with millions of people abroad.

When Richard is not traveling, he resides in Tulsa, Oklahoma. In his spare time, he enjoys attending the theater, fishing, reading, and playing music. He is a dedicated husband to his wife, Marty, and a loving father to his two children, Averie and Coleman. As a family, they have actively supported Averie, who has Down Syndrome, in the Special Olympics.
